Inst Navy Day, October 27.

Until last September, the stripped hull of it was sitting on concrete blocks in the yard of the Submarine Base at Pearl Harbor, a silent reminder of the American Navy's worst hour. When the Treasury asked to borrow it for a bond tour, it was transported to Mare Island Navy Yard, California, in the foredeck of a big freighter, and there refitted, in lighter materials, so that it looks ready to sail again on its lethal mission.

There were 104 heavy-duty storage batteries in four banks which furnished power for an electric motor; those heavy batteries have been replaced by light, hollow replicas and the motor was not replaced. Thus the weight of some 35 tons has been cut in half, for hauling around the country. Even now, it is one of the heaviest loads ever hauled by truck over American lighways, weighing, with its tractor-trailer, over 75,000 pounds.

Until last September, the stripped hull of it was sitting on concrete blocks in the yard of the Submarine Base at Pearl Harbor, a silent reminder of the American Navy's worst hour. When the Treasury asked to borrow it for a bond tour, it was transported to Mare Island Navy Yard, California, in the foredeck of a big freighter, and there refitted, in lighter materials, so that it looks ready to sail again on its lethal mission.

There were 104 heavy-duty storage batteries in four banks which furnished power for an electric motor; those heavy batteries have been replaced by light, hollow replicas and the motor was not replaced. Thus the weight of some 35 tons has been cut in half, for hauling around the country.
